Roosey Roads 'Driving Onbase' Story

One of my favorite Roosey Rds. memories is the day I had some time to myself without kids and drove over to the point by Chris And Pete's quarters to just enjoy the ocean views. I was returning home in my distracted mental state of enjoying being in such a pretty place and child free. I came to a stop sign and just sat there oblivious. One of the illustrious VC-8 husbands pulled up behind me and finally yelled out in frustration- "lady, the stop sign doesn't turn green." I have laughed at the memory for over 50 years. By the way I still stop at signs and too often am waiting for them to turn green.
